Register your interest in the Android developer verification early access program

Before we open registration to all developers in March 2026, we're inviting developers for early access to the new Android developer verification experience this year.

We're looking for a diverse mix of developers worldwide, from individual creators to large organizations. By participating, you'll not only get a head start but also help us build an experience that works for everyone. You'll also get

- Priority support for these new requirements.
- An invitation to an exclusive community discussion forum.
- The opportunity to provide feedback and shape the experience for the entire Android ecosystem.

To join the waitlist, please complete this two-minute form. We appreciate your willingness to help!

Note: If you manage apps for different companies or have both an individual and an organization account, please submit a separate survey for each.
